FAILURE TO REPORT MISHAPS TO R.101.

Startling Evidence by Sir John Higgins:

LORD THOMSON'S HASTE.

London, Yesterday. At the R.101 enquiry to-day, Sir John Simon, questioning Air Marshal Sir John Higgins, elicited the fact that the repairs to the gas bags, which were holed through chafing, also the engine were not reported to the Air that in the Senate the Democrats Later, M. That's All Settled.

Air Vice-Marshal Dowding asserted that as the airship had not done full power trials, he told Lord Thomson that he proposed to instruct Wing Commander ity. Colmore to carry out full power trials as soon as possible after leaving India, so that if anything Hawley (Oregon) who is chairwere not satisfactory, there would still be time to turn back, after which Lord Thomson remarked "That's all settled then," showing that he was absolutely confident.

Sir John Simon declared that there was no written report on the last trial flight, and no written inspection sheet of what was observed during and after the flight, and asked: "Is it a fact that just at this moment the Air Ministry granted an airworthiness certificate?"

Air Vice-Marshal Dowding replied, "A certificate was issued by the Secretary of State, having are jubilant at the results of the the Central Court this morning, regard to the reports furnished to him," presumably by Commander Colmore.

BRITISH TRADE BRITAIN'S WEIGHT OF POLICY. TAXATION.

Comparison With Her Trade Competitors.

In the forefront of its leading article on "Taxation in Great Britain and Abroad," in the Westminster Bank Review, published on August 18, the writer notes the tendency in recent years for taxation to decline in many foreign trade competitors of Great Britain, while the British total has been steadily rising; and asks, first, why ther an early check can be put to respondent of the Financial Times a tendency whose continuance on August 19. must obviously have such detrimental effects.

growth of the public debt in Great Britain and in other countries may probity, it scarcely affords room for doubt as to the disabilities under which the British 'taxpayer labours. A recent memorandum compiled by the League of Nations shows that while France's annual bill per head is only 21/2 times its pre-War level- (in terms of "real" values) and Italy's only 11/2 times, that of Great Britain is over times as high as in 1913-14.

This is partly accounted for by the fact that while Great -Britain. alone after the War stabilised her currency on a basis of 20s. to the pound, France stabilised hers at a rate equal to 4s. in the pound and Italy hers at a rate equivalent to EXPRESS COMPANY, 58. 5d. in the pound.

To put the matter in another way, France, by her terms stabilisation, reduced the real burden of her War debt to one-fifth, while Italy reduced here to rather more than cons-fourth, of , its nominal value. Britain alone; among the European belligerents, made alfull "hundred per cent. bargain" with her creditors .. She did not regret this step at the time, and, despite her present difficulties, she has not regretted it subsequently, says the Review, but what was certainly not looked for at the "time was a subsequent further in prices, 36½ per cent.

Handicap On Industry. A summary of the factors elucidated in the article shows ominous clarity: (1) that the burden of taxation is significantly heavier in Great Britain than the case of her most dangerous trade competitors; (2) that largest individual item in the annual bill of costs is the service of Watchful Attitude in Scandināvia.

The protectionist campaign in Britain is attracting an everincreasing amount of interest in all three Scandinavian States. Denmark stands to lose very heavily if Great Britain puts import duties on bacon, eggs and butcountries which are formidable ter. For Norway and Denmark Great Britain is incomparably the best While a comparison of the market; for Sweden the British market is one of great importance. Business men, therefore, are keenhonour to British financial ly-watching developments in

It is pointed out that the Scandinavian countries, while in a very vulnerable position; also have one or two very excellent; bargaining weapons at their disposal. A prominent Norwegian paper and pulp manufacturer has publicly stated that if the British market is closed to Norwegian paper and pulp, then the Norwegian market will have to be closed to British coal. And there is not the slightest doubt that Poland would be prepared to offer very tangible advantages and benefits in return for a Scandinavian agreement on coal.

Reprisal Against Germany. The recent arbitrary German tariff on agricultural produce illustrates what may very well happen if European countries feel their prosperity threatened by a British tariff. This German tariff had irritated Danish, and Dutch commercial interests to such an extent that a couple of large engineering orders originally placed in Ger many, were cancelled and transfer red to Britain. Swedish interest were equally antagonised.

The Prawns feeling is growing that both Scandinavian countries themselves, as well as Britain, would stand to Roach gain by granting Britain certain Salmon tariff concessions. Neither Norway nor Denmark forgets that Britain is her best customer, and as such is entitled to the best possible treatment.

Writing to J. D. Black, Director of the New Brunswick Government Bureau of Information, on the recent visit to the province of members of the American Agricutural Editors Association, Walter H. There were two series of these pictographs. The first almost obliterated and apparently very old, were made with a black pigment on flat surfaces of the rock and consisted of geometrical designs. The second series was in red pigment and consisted of deer, antelope, and man-like figures.

Stirling believes that the geometric designs were those of the ancient people while the animal figures may have been made by the Apaches, who occupied the region in historic times. The former, being symbolic represent a more advanced culture than, the latter, but the Apaches were a notably primitive

An Exciting Journey.

Shifting from Texas to northeastern Nevada, Stirling investigat. ed an enormous cavern in the Rugby mountains from which emerged large stream. "Mother—and always it is "mother" in her ideal role of nurse and comforter. For it is in this capacity that a mother has made her deepest impression on her child. When baby is sick, mother and child are drawn so closely together, mother's emotions so deeply steirred. It is not surprising that modern mothers have made such imperative demands for health-safeguards for their little ones to replace the old-time narcotic-so called "soothing" medicines, and the crude griping purgatives of the last generation. Overland China Mail. WEEK'S PAPERS IN ONE.

Astonishing revelations were forthcoming in a prosecution brought by the Crown alleging arson against the master of a medicine shop in Wing Lok Street. Three other men, one the master's son, were arraigned with him. It was alleged that a hole had been made in the first floor of the building and that an inflammable trail had been laid to the storeroom above. The defendants, it is alleged, intended to defraud an insurance company or companies of $31,000. The OVERLAND CHINA MAIL reports the case in detail.

Votes totalling over a quarter of a million dollars are to come before the Finance Committee at its next meeting. The votes include one for $105,000 in connection with the. Kowloon Tong Building Scheme. The OVERLAND CHINA MAILe gives full details of the requirements under the various votes.

An interesting case concerning the censoring of a film shown at a local cinema house occupied the attention of the Magistrate during the week. The proprietors were prosecuted for showing a film that had not been "cut" according to the instructions of the censor. The plea of the defence, that the film was shown uncut owing to a misunderstanding, was accepted. A full report appears in the OVERLAND CHINA MAIL. Affairs in Northern China continue to gain in dramatic intensity. From dispatches received, it appears as if the Feng-Yen menace has ceased, at least for the time being. The social life of the Colony is fully covered in the columns of the OVERLAND CHINA MAIL, features of the week being the Hallowe'en dinner of the Scottish Company of the Volunteer Defence Corps, the Machine Gun Company's annual dinner, and the maugural meeting of the newly-formed Society of Yorkshiremen.

DIVER'S TASK.

The location by divers of the liner Egypt, which was sunk off Ushant eight, years ago, has prompted the conclusion that "the major portion of the problem of deep-water salvage has been solved." True, five tons of gold and 45 tons of silver have yet to that the enormous pressure of the be recovered, and this will necessitate the removal of machinery by hooks and electro-magnets, and But the heaviest part of the task in front of the Italian salvage boat was to find the ship, and then to examine her where she lay, 400 feet under water, a depth at which divers have not worked hitherto, except experimentally. And this has been done.

I asked Mr. Gorman Davis, director of Siebe, Gorman and Co., working time-which is important evident. It urged that with big submarine engineers, of London, who have played a large part in salvage work for 111 years, whether he agreed with the conclusion quoted (writes an Observer correspondent). He replied, "It al depends on what you mean, by 'deep sea.' The sea is a couple of miles or more deep in some places: But, undoubtedly, the success with the Egypt has proved that you can of doing this has been obviated by such shipping would be secure. locate and examine a wreck, and recover valuables, at a depth which would have been impossible a fewyears ago.

RAPID CARGO DISCHARGE.

Record For London

What is believed by the Port of London Authority to be a record for cargo discharging has just been established in the unloading of the Union Castle chartered steamer "Murillo," . carrying 100,000 packages of oranges and other citrus fruit from Cape Town. The vessel was berthed at West India Dock, and was completely discharged in 28 working hoursan average of over 3,500 cases per hour. The peak time was on the second day, when 87,000 packages were discharged in eight hours. There were on board 300 different consignments, each having to be kept separate for its particular destination. The first load was at Covent Garden Market within an hour and a half of leaving the ship's refrigerating chambers, and other loads were railed to provincial centres in equally good time.

"THE BANGLE GIRL.

CURIOUS SCHOOL PROBLEM TO PERPLEX SOMERSET.

The question whether a girl should be allowed to wear jewellery at school or not has provided the Somerset Education authorities with a problem of unusual difficulty. The problem with which the authorities are faced is to find a. settlement for the deadlock which has arisen in the case of Violet Burton, a little girl living at West Coker, a West Somerset village. who, owing to the dispute in which she has figured; has become known as the "bangle girl." Violet Burton is the principal figure in the most protracted school dispute which has ever occurred. When a little child she was sent to the village school at West Coker: wearing a small silver bangle. which the school requested should be removed. Her parents insisted on her wearing it, and went so far as to padlock it on her arm to prevent its removal. This has created a deadlock which has lasted almost continuously for nearly five years. Though the summer vacation isover and children back at school, Violet Burton is not attending school because of the bangle dispute. Her father insists on her wearing it at school, while the school authorities and the teacher are equally determined that she shall not wear it, and refuse to have the child at school unless the ornsment is removed. Again the problem has been considered by the school managers and the teacher. No solution, however, is in sight, and the child continues to enjoy holiday indefinitely."

CLIMATES OF THE PAST

Mr. Braga further enquired whe- Evidence Of Changes In Historical

We are all accustomed to hear elderly persons complain or boast that the winters and summers of the present are very different from what they remember. Doubtless the explanation is that they remember vividly only extreme seasons, for there is no evidence of any marked difference in the climate of Western Europe within the last century. But Dr. C. P. E. Brooks. was able to lay evidence before the Section of Geography of the British Association as to the occurrence of very marked periods during which the climate of large areas was different from present conditions. The evidence came from many sources, from actual records, and from in-not even require paper or pencil.

You ask me a question. Multiply 645 by 927, that is easy. That makes 597,915. "If I had to teach mental calculation to children, this is how I should begin with such a problem as you have posed, multiplication of 645 by 927. I begin by multiplying 600 by 900, which gives me 540,000; I next multiply 600 by 27. giving 16,200. Instead of multiplying the 45 by 600, T take 50 which multiply by 900 and I have 45,000. I likewise take 50 which multiply by . 27. These 1,850 are added to the rest, giving 602,550 But, as I have multiplied 927 by 50 instead of 45, I therefore multiply 927 by 5, giving 4,635, which subtract from 602,550. "That gives 597,915. It has re quired five minutes to explain that which I can work out mentally in five seconds, even less." Some of His Feats.

Queen's)...

Those of us who saw "The Last of Mrs. Cheyney" have delightful memories of the Briton, Basil Rathbone, a star from the Broadway stage. We will see him in the part of Philo Vance in this murder mystery play, a part with which we associate the name of the perfect actor, William Powell. I do not think him as good as Powell, but the story is quite absorbing. You will like him better in "The Lady of Scandal" with int the morning. Pity the poor Ruth Chatterton (borrowed by M-G-M from Paramount), in the Talkle version of Frederick Lonsdale's "The High Road." Like so many Britons who have a yearning for the stage, Rathbone had to run away from home, as his parents resented his taste.
